Starting Out in Golf

- The only club in the bag specifically designed to get the ball in the cup is the putter. Why not learn it first? -Jackie Burke, Jr.
- The younger you are, the more you should focus on your short game. It is hard to have a perfect golf swing when you are fourteen or fifteen years old because you are not done growing yet. But that touch you develop by working on your short game will stick with you your entire life. – Bob Estes
- Golf should be learned starting at the cup and progressing back toward the tee....If a beginner tries to learn the game at the tee and move on toward the green, postponing the short game until last, this is one beginner who will be lucky to ever beat anybody. –Harvy Penick
- In golf, as in other sports, youth is a great helper, but if you cannot start at three, or twelve, or even thirty-five, start at forty-five or fifty. Remember that it's better to have golfed and fozzled than never golfed at all. –Jerome Travers
